Scenario 1

Health Literacy

SCENE DESCRIPTION

Mary is a 21-year-old woman who lives in a rural area. She is illiterate and has not heard much about contraception. Today, she went to the closest health facility to get more information about family planning after hearing some of her neighbors talking about it. She had to travel 1.5 hours to get to the facility.

The provider took Mary to a private area for a consultation. During her consultation, the health provider recommended that Mary start taking oral contraceptive pills to prevent pregnancies. However, the provider didn't explain many details about side effects she might experience or how often she would need to return to get more pills. The provider did not let Mary know about other family planning options.

Mary didn't have the space to ask questions or seek more guidance. She felt shy to talk about her concerns, needs, and preferences with the provider. She left feeling uncertain about what to expect and whether she wanted to use oral contraceptive pills.

SCENE DESCRIPTION

Grace just got married and hopes to go to university. She is not ready to have a child yet, as she hopes to graduate from university and get a job. She is curious about family planning but she believes her religious leaders would oppose. Her mother-in-law wants her to have a child soon and she feels embarrassed talking to her husband about sex and contraception. She has also heard that family planning can make it so she won't be able to get pregnant later on.

She finally decides to go with her cousin to the health facility and inquire about family planning. During the consultation, the provider scolds her for believing false ideas about contraception. The provider addresses Grace's misunderstanding but advises against using family planning since she should not wait to have her first child. The provider is not willing to provide Grace with contraception without her husband's consent. She suggested that Grace come back next time with her husband.

Grace leaves feeling frustrated and defeated. Her concerns were not addressed and she doesn't know how to talk to her husband about using family planning.

Rushed but available provider

SCENE DESCRIPTION

Doris is 34 years old and started to use contraceptive implants a few months ago. She has been experiencing occasional heavy menstrual bleeding, which bothers her and her husband. She wonders if there are other methods that she could switch to. Doris and her husband, Thumbo, have discussed and want to continue some form of family planning.

She comes to the health facility with her husband hoping to discuss the problems she is experiencing. The couple waits for 2 hours because there were a lot of clients at the facility. They see some community members and worry that they might find out that they're using family planning. Finally, they are able to talk with a provider. Doris explains the side effects she has been experiencing and asks what she can do.

The provider explains the bleeding and discusses a few other options with the couple, including some that Thumbo could consider. The couple feels at ease asking questions, and the provider responds, though she is very busy. The couple decides to try an IUD, but unfortunately none is in stock. The provider refers Doris to another facility for IUD insertion.
